SEC v. Champion-Cain, ANI Development, LLC, et. al.

Dear Investors/Lenders,

Re: Protective Order Regarding Investor Contact Information in the matter of Securities and Exchange Commission, Plaintiffs, v. GINA CHAMPION-CAIN and ANI DEVELOPMENT, LLC, Defendants, and American National Investments, Inc., Relief Defendant, United States District Court, Southern District of California, Case No. 3:19-cv-01628-LAB-AHG

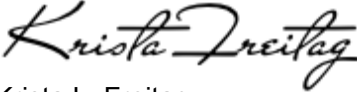

A request was made for the contact information of investors/lenders by certain investors/lenders and their lawyers. The parties then discussed the request and agreed that (a) all investor contact information should be kept confidential by those who receive it, and (b) investors should be allowed to “opt out” if they so choose (i.e. not have their contact information shared). This proposal was then made to and approved by the Court, the order on which is located at <https://www.anireceivership.com/downloads/Protective-Order-re-Investor-Contact-Information.pdf> for your reference.

Per the order, investors/lenders have 14-days (February 24, 2020) from the date of this posting/message, to notify the Receiver or the SEC that they do not want their contact information (name, telephone number and email address) to be shared. After the end of the 14-day period, per the order, the Receiver will share the contact information for those investors/lenders who have not opted out. The information will be provided only to those investors/lenders and/or their lawyers who have agreed to be bound by the confidentiality requirements in the order.

Accordingly, please send an email to ani@ethreadvisors.com or 3129cv01628@sec.gov on or before February 24, 2020 if you do not want your contact information to be shared. If you are okay with your contact information being shared, you do not need to do anything (please do not send an email stating you are okay with your contact information being shared).

Sincerely,

Krista L. Freitag
Receiver
